

Benny Tells the Truth

An Interactive Story About Honesty

For Ages 6–7 • Theme: Honesty • Reading Time: ~8 minutes

Part 1: The Story

Once upon a time, in Clover Meadow, lived a small rabbit named Benny. Benny had the softest white ears and the brightest brown eyes. Everyone in the meadow said Benny was kind and very brave. Benny loved one thing most of all — playing with his best friend, Lily the Fox.

One sunny morning, Lily had a brand-new red kite. "Look, Benny!" she said. "My grandma gave this to me. It is my favourite thing!" Benny's eyes went wide. The kite was so beautiful and shiny. "Can I hold it?" Benny asked. Lily smiled and said yes.

Benny held the string and ran as fast as his feet could go. The kite danced up, up, up into the bright blue sky. But then — SNAP! The string broke. The kite flew away! Benny's tummy felt tight. His ears drooped down low. "Oh no," he whispered. "What do I do now?"

Decision Point 1 — What Should Benny Do?

Lily is coming over. Benny must decide right now!

Option A

Pretend nothing happened and say the kite just flew away on its own.

Option B

Tell Lily the truth — that he broke the string and lost her kite.

Benny took a deep breath. His heart was thumping fast. "Lily," he said quietly, "I am so sorry. I broke the string."

"Your kite flew away. It was my fault. I should have been more careful."
Lily's eyes went wide. Then she looked very sad.
"My grandma's kite..." she said softly. A tear rolled down her cheek.

Benny felt terrible. But he was glad he had told the truth.
Just then, Old Owl flew down from the big oak tree.
"I saw everything," said Old Owl in his kind, deep voice.
"I also saw where the kite landed — in the tall grass by the river!"
Benny's ears perked up. Could they find it?

Decision Point 2 — What Should They Do Next?

Old Owl has given them a clue. What is the best next step?

Option A

Go alone to find the kite and surprise Lily so she stops being sad.

Option B

Ask Lily to come together to search for the kite as a team.

"Lily, will you come with me?" Benny asked. "We can look together."
Lily nodded. They walked side by side to the tall grass.
Benny searched to the left. Lily searched to the right.
Then — Lily shouted: "I SEE IT!"
There was the red kite, resting gently on a big green leaf.

The kite was not broken. It was perfectly fine!
Lily laughed and hugged the kite. Then she hugged Benny too.
"Thank you for telling me the truth," Lily said with a big smile.
"A brave friend is an honest friend."
Benny smiled the biggest smile he had ever smiled.
His tummy did not feel tight anymore. It felt warm and light.
And from that day on, Benny always told the truth — no matter what.

★ Today's Message ★

Telling the truth takes bravery — but it always feels better in the end.

Part 2: Pixar-Style Illustration Prompts

Illustration 1 — The Kite Breaks

Scene:

A wide sunlit meadow bursting with wildflowers in golden light. In the foreground, a small white rabbit (Benny) stands frozen mid-run, eyes wide with shock, his little paws still clutching a broken kite string. High above in the cerulean sky, a vivid red diamond kite tumbles away trailing a frayed ribbon. In the background, a warm-toned treeline frames the scene. The art style is Pixar/Brave — rounded character proportions, expressive eyes, rich saturated colours, and soft volumetric lighting. Benny's ears are drooped in worry. Close-up of his face shows a quivering bottom lip. No text.

Illustration 2 — The Honest Confession

Scene:

A quiet afternoon in Clover Meadow. Benny the white rabbit stands face-to-face with Lily the Fox — a small, warm-orange fox with a bushy tail and curious green eyes. Benny's head is slightly bowed, one paw held to his chest in apology. His expression is sincere and nervous but courageous. Lily's eyes shimmer with a tear. A wise old owl with silver feathers perches on a nearby wooden fence post, nodding approvingly. Warm amber afternoon light casts long gentle shadows. Pixar-style rendering with expressive eyes, painterly textures, and a soft emotional atmosphere. No text.

Illustration 3 — The Joyful Discovery

Scene:

A sparkling riverside scene. Tall emerald grass sways gently in the breeze. Lily the Fox leaps joyfully into the air, both arms raised high, the red kite clutched triumphantly above her head. Benny stands beside her, beaming with the biggest smile, his ears perked straight up with delight. The river behind them glitters in warm late-afternoon sunlight. Petals and dandelion seeds drift through the air. Both characters are lit with golden-hour light, exuding warmth, relief, and friendship. Pixar Brave/Up style — cinematic wide shot, rich depth of field, expressive body language. No text.

Part 3: Narration Script (Text-to-Speech Ready)

Pacing notes: Speak at 110–120 WPM. Add a 1-second pause at each [PAUSE] marker. Use a warm, gentle storytelling voice.

Narration Script

[INTRO — gentle and inviting]

Hello, young reader. Get cosy. Today's story is called... "Benny Tells the Truth." [PAUSE]

[VERSE 1 — warm and cheerful]

Once upon a time, in a place called Clover Meadow, [PAUSE] lived a small rabbit named Benny. Benny had the softest white ears and the brightest brown eyes. Everyone said Benny was kind... and very brave. [PAUSE] His best friend was Lily the Fox.

[VERSE 2 — excited, building tension]

One sunny morning, Lily had a brand-new red kite. [PAUSE] "Look, Benny!" she said. "My grandma gave this to me. It is my favourite thing!" [PAUSE] Benny's eyes went wide. He asked if he could hold it. Lily smiled... and said yes. [PAUSE] Benny ran as fast as his feet could go. The kite danced up, up, UP into the bright blue sky! [PAUSE] But then — [dramatic pause 2 sec] SNAP! The string broke. The kite flew away. [PAUSE] Benny's tummy felt tight. His ears drooped down low.

[DECISION 1 — friendly, inviting participation]

"Oh no," he whispered. "What do I do now?" [PAUSE] Lily was coming over. Benny had to decide. [PAUSE] Should he pretend nothing happened? [PAUSE] Or should he tell Lily the truth? [PAUSE] What do YOU think Benny should do? [2-sec pause for child response]

[VERSE 3 — slow, earnest, brave]

Benny took a deep breath. His heart was thumping fast. [PAUSE] "Lily," he said quietly, "I am so sorry. I broke the string." [PAUSE] "Your kite flew away. It was my fault." [PAUSE] Lily's eyes went wide. Then she looked very sad. A tear rolled down her cheek. [PAUSE] Benny felt terrible. But he was glad he told the truth. [PAUSE] Just then — Old Owl flew down. [PAUSE] "I saw where the kite landed!" he said. "It is in the tall grass by the river!" [PAUSE]

[DECISION 2 — gentle, collaborative]

Benny's ears perked up! Could they find it? [PAUSE] Should Benny go alone to surprise Lily? [PAUSE] Or should he ask Lily to search together? [PAUSE] What do YOU think? [2-sec pause for child response]

[VERSE 4 — bright, joyful, rising energy]

"Lily, will you come with me?" Benny asked. [PAUSE] Together they walked to the tall grass by the river. Benny searched to the left. Lily searched to the right. [PAUSE] Then — Lily shouted: [excited!] "I SEE IT!" [PAUSE] There was the red kite, resting gently on a big green leaf. Safe and sound! [PAUSE] Lily laughed and hugged the kite. Then she hugged Benny too. [PAUSE] "Thank you for telling me the truth," she said with a big smile. "A brave friend is an honest friend." [PAUSE]

[OUTRO — warm, calm, reflective]

Benny smiled the biggest smile he had ever smiled. His tummy felt warm and light. And from that day on, Benny always told the truth — no matter what. [PAUSE] Because telling the truth takes bravery... [PAUSE] but it always... always feels better in the end. [PAUSE] The End. [3-sec pause]

Part 4: Background Music Description

Musical Score Guide

Instrumental — No Lyrics • Total Duration: ~8 minutes

Opening & Intro (0:00–1:00)

Soft, playful pizzicato strings (ukulele or plucked acoustic guitar) open lightly. Add a gentle glockenspiel melody — bright, innocent, curiosity-evoking. Tempo: 80 BPM. Key: G Major. The feeling is sunny meadow morning, full of possibility. Like the opening of a Pixar short.

Kite Scene / Rising Tension (1:00–2:30)

Build energy with light woodwind (flute and piccolo) as the kite soars. At the SNAP moment, the music drops suddenly to a single held low cello note. Silence for 2 seconds. Then a soft, uncertain piano motif — minor key, slow, gentle. Conveys worry without being frightening. Tempo drops to 60 BPM.

Decision Points (at each interactive pause)

A simple, looping 4-bar piano phrase in C Major. Gentle and thoughtful — like a question being posed. Slow tempo (55 BPM). Repeat until child answers. Suggests safety and no rush. Similar to the contemplative underscore in Up (Michael Giacchino).

The Honest Confession (2:30–4:30)

Solo cello, tender and earnest. A simple descending melody that mirrors Benny's bravery — slightly melancholic but resolute. Low dynamics, very intimate. Introduce a soft French horn harmony that adds warmth and courage underneath. Tempo: 65 BPM. Key: D minor resolving to F Major.

The Search & Discovery (4:30–6:30)

Return of the playful opening theme, now with added energy. Strings begin to swell. Tempo increases to 95 BPM. Xylophone and light percussion add forward motion. At the discovery moment ("I SEE IT!"), a bright orchestral swell — full strings, bright brass, glockenspiel — joyful and triumphant but child-appropriate, not overwhelming.

Closing / Moral Resolution (6:30–8:00)

Warm, full orchestral arrangement of the main theme — strings, gentle brass, glockenspiel. Ritardando (slow down gradually) in the final 30 seconds. Final chord: a warm G Major with an added 9th — open, hopeful, complete. Fade to silence over 10 seconds. Leaves the listener with a feeling of safety, warmth, and contentment.

Reference composers/scores:

Michael Giacchino (Up, Inside Out) • Patrick Doyle (Brave) • Alan Silvestri (The Polar Express) — Child-safe, emotionally guiding, orchestral warmth.